According to the report the Moros surprised an outpost of the Eighteenth Infantry encamped near Kieithly and raked the camp with a volley before the soldiers could put up a defense. Two columns of infantry have plunged into the jungles in pursuit. The details attacked were engaged in protecting friendly natives.

HOWLAND'S

Entrances on Main street, Fairfield avenue and Cannon street.

Bridgeport, Conn., Friday, May 28, 1909.
The Weather—Fair tonight and tomorrow.

$4 buys a man great low shoes.

To put the case plainly, we believe there are no shoes in this town for men, selling at $4, that are as good as these Howland shoes.

But the thing to do is to make men believe that. We could do it, if you men would give us a chance. All that we need is to put a pair on your feet and have you give them the test of actual service. The shoes will do the rest.

Why are we so sure? Because they have done it already for a whole lot of men who were Doubting Thomases. And those very men are now the best friends that Howland shoes have.

Here are a dozen or fifteen styles of low shoes for men. They are not only made of the best leather, but they are made by best workmen. The one counts as much as the other toward your comfort and the good looks of your shoe. Even the best workman can't make an A-1 shoe out of poor stuff. Neither could a poor workman make a good shoe; even though given A-1 leather. These shoes, the Howland shoes, are combination of best workers and best material. The result is best shoes.

They fit, too, as a shoe should. They hug close at the heel and across the ball of the foot. But they don't pinch; are comfortable. This goodness of fit makes them wear longer. They don't wear out half so soon as a shoe does that fits imperfectly and so gets special strain on some one part.

Patent leather in blucher and button and 2-eyel pump style;

Russia leather, tan, in oxford, blucher, and pump cut;

Velour calfskin in button, blucher, and pump styles;

Kangaroo in broad toe blucher.

These are the leathers and the styles—but you must see and try them on to really know about them as you ought. $4

Canned Coffee.
Can be obtained only at the store of the Union Pacific Tea Co., 1063 Main street, and 701 East Main street. You can buy any old coffee at most any old place you may stop at. Coffee that has been laying around perhaps for six months, subject to dirt, dampness, and foul odor, exposed in windows laid out counters, etc. Do you want that kind? We don't think you do. That's why we think you would prefer canned coffee because it's packed hot from the roasters into air tight cans, which assures you a clean, fresh and delicious coffee. We open up the cans and grind it for you if you wish. One trial will convince you that canned coffee has no equal in quality and flavor. Remember this coffee is sold only in one pound cans and can be had only at the stores of the Union Pacific Tea Co., 1063 Main street, and 701 East Main street. Telephone and free delivery.

Soda Coupons.
Beginning tomorrow the Puritan, the candy store at 129 Fairfield avenue, will give soda coupons to its patrons. Six coupons will be accepted as payment for a drink at the fountain. To start the coupons every purchaser of candy or soda tomorrow will receive one. A brand new candy, walnut bonbons, which tastes much better than it sounds. A solid core of chopped English walnuts dipped in cream of two flavors, vanilla and maple, which makes a most delicious combination.
